CONESTOGA CAMPGROUND

Nestled in the Smith River Valley of the Rocky Mountains

Conestoga Campground is located halfway between Glacier and Yellowstone national parks on Highway 89. As you might expect from its name, the area invokes both the spirit of America's early travelers and the rugged beauty that inspired pioneers who made the trek to the heart of the old west. Today the landscape still calls to travelers, enticing them to stop and take notice.

Montana is known as the "treasure state," and this corner of the state lives up to the name. Encircled by 9,000-foot peaks of the Big Belt Mountains, Little Belt Mountains, and Crazy Mountains, the high-country scenery beckons you to explore and discover the wilderness treasures of the surrounding forests, rivers, and lakes teeming with elk, deer, eagles, and more. You can embark on your own outings or take advantage of the local outfitters, who offer hunting, fishing, rafting, and cookouts.

Once onsite, you'll find ample amenities to keep you busy without ever moving from your well-appointed RV site. Meet old and new friends at the clubhouse and lounge. You'll also find a state-of-the art laundry, immaculate restrooms, hot showers, and a dump station. Take advantage of the hiking trails to keep in shape, and for anything you may have forgotten stop in at the gift shop.

Nearby to Conestoga Campground is Arrowhead Meadows Golf, is a 9-hole municipal course located just south of White Sulphur Springs in the beautiful Smith River Valley. The region offers many opportunities for hiking, biking, hunting, wildlife viewing, restaurants, and the world famous Smith River. The river twists and turns for more than 100 miles through remote and scenic landscapes before spilling into the Missouri River near Ulm, Montana.

The community of White Sulphur Springs offers the perfect mix of small-town hospitality and summertime activities, all within walking distance of the campground.

RESORT TYPE
Coast Deluxe

LOCATION
White Sulphur Springs, Montana

SEASON
May 1 – October 31

WEBSITE
ccmemberships.com