

If you've been to Missouri's Lost Valley Lake Resort, you might wonder how in the world it could get any better. Try a new million-dollar lodge, set to open soon. Just one more reason Woodall's rates Lost Valley Lake among the top 3 percent of all private campgrounds in the United States.

Management at Lost Valley Lake Resort is always on the lookout for ways to provide the finest experiences for owners and guests. The new lodge is just one example of their desire to create a resort with activities and amenities that encourage and enable families "to grow their own memories."

Just about every type of vacation activity imaginable is available at the 537-acre resort, from horseback riding and stables to an aquatic center featuring two pools, two spas and a kiddie pool, all heated for year-round use. There's a 21,000-square-foot sports arena, an adult lounge, an arcade, a movie theater and miniature golf.

The resort's 50-acre Valley View Lake has two beaches plus swimming areas with floating slides and water-fun possibilities limited only by your imagination. Try sailboats, flat-bottomed jon boats, canoes and pedal boats. Lake Pride, a 75-acre lake, and three smaller ponds are stocked with bass, channel catfish, crappie, bluegill and hybrid sunfish. For trout anglers, Hidden Oaks Pond is stocked with trout once a year for the annual trout tournament.

Coast to Coast members usually settle in and enjoy everything Lost Valley Lake Resort has to offer. Its rolling green hills are perfect for hiking or as a backdrop to group activities such as luaus, dinners with live bands, Las Vegas nights, movies and arts-and-crafts shows. Nearby, you can explore the German village of Hermann, famous for its wineries, Maifest and Oktoberfest, or try an underground adventure at Meramec Caverns. For thrill seekers, there are the mile-a-minute roller coaster thrills at Six Flags.
